Allerton House in Weymouth Resident Bernie Norton and Executive Chef John Cooney

Chess Whiz Challenges Allerton House Chef

Bernie Norton is a chess enthusiast. You might even call him a chess whiz. So when he and his wife Marion moved to Allerton House at Central Park in Weymouth in 2012, he asked around in search of a worthy opponent. His inquiries paid off when he learned Executive Chef John Cooney shared his love of the game.

"John and I arrange a time to play once or twice a week," Norton says, and jokes, "I'm bad. I like to win and usually do. Occasionally he wears me down. He's learning."

These days, Norton and Cooney enjoy their matches in the community's newly renovated Club Room.

"They've perked the place up really nice with new carpeting, furniture, and décor," Norton notes. "The big thing is the dining room, which has been remodeled into a large open space. The activities room, living room, and pub are updated, too."

Allerton House in Hingham resident Betty Lincoln enjoys the new Hingham Café and Pub with fellow resident Richard Raczkowski.

"You Get Spoiled Here," says Resident Betty Lincoln

"Music has always been a part of my life," says Betty Lincoln, a resident of Allerton House at Harbor Park in Hingham where she regularly plays piano for fellow residents in the newly renovated living room.

"They really went all out," says Betty of the recently completed refurbishment of the community's living room, Garden Café and Pub, sunroom, library, country kitchen, and dining rooms. "It has a much lighter look and feel."

"Allerton House stood out among other assisted living communities my son looked at when it was time to move," she adds. "It's small. I like that. And I love that the grounds are surrounded by woods. Everyone is friendly. You get spoiled here."
